September 20th the Q. O. & K. C. Ry. will sell tickets to Quincy and return for $2.00, on account of Forepaugh's circus. The $2.00 includes a ticket of admission to the circus.

George Graham, of Leofler, brought a small load of poultry to Kirkville one day this week, which he sold to P. W. Chidester for $14.00. It would take a large load of wheat to bring the same money.

Quite a number of music teachers will enroll at the Conservatory of Music to take up advanced work. There will be also a number of little children, who will study Piano after the Kindergarten method.

The man Boone, who was arrested in Pettis township, in May, on a charge of burglary committed in Kahoka, was tried at Memphis Monday. He pleaded guilty to one charge and was sentenced to the penitentiary for three years. This leaves three charges to answer when he gets out of the pen.

Tuesday night when C. L. Rider was shutting up his place of business for the night he closed the screen door on the head of a large, spotted snake. He did not discover what he had done until he went to open the store next morning, and found his snakeship lying in the doorway dead. It was of the species known as the house snake, but was unusually large.

The notes and papers taken from Fletcher, Ely & Co's. safe Monday night of last week were all found, except a Phoenix life insurance policy, in a field about a mile from the scene of the burglary. The thieves broke open the box and finding the papers were of no use to them put them back in the box, and threw it over into the field where it was found by some helpers at a threshing machine.

Next Monday Prof. E. M. Goldberg, the director of the new Conservatory of Music, will go to Chicago, to meet his family returning from their summer retreat in Ohio. They are going to live at the residence of Wm. Porter, which they have rented for a year.

Don't let our good citizens forget that the Conservatory of Music will bring a good many music pupils and teachers into town from abroad, none of whom will spend less than $100 per year. Let every body assist in building up the new school.

A. L. Gibson, tonsorial artist, returns thanks for the splendid patronage he has received since going into business, and invites all who have not given him a trial to call at his barber shop and get the smoothest shave and the toniest hair cut ever turned out in the city.

There is great interest shown in the study of Modern Languages. Prof. Goldberg will have three classes in German, one in French and one in Italian. Business men especially are going to study German practically. Some of the classes meet after supper time.

Dr. C. W. Mateer, of Tangchow, China, will preach in the Presbyterian church next Sunday morning and in the Baptist church in the evening. Dr. Mateer is one of the most prominent missionaries of the Presbyterian church, having spent twenty-nine years in China. All are cordially invited to hear him.

The Richard Wagner Conservatory of music and modern languages has been located at Mr. Wm. Porter's former residence, Northeast corner Elson and Illinois streets. The recitation and practice rooms are lighted by electricity and heated by furnace. No better place that that for a Conservatory.

The fire engine which was brought from Macon last week, was tested by the fire company Monday evening. It is an excellent piece of machinery, and did its work well. It pumped all the water out of three wells, and only required about three minutes for each well. We are told that its first cost was $7000, but Macon offers it to Kirkville for $1,000, as that city now has water works and does not need an engine.

The artesian well is now down nearly 1200 feet. Wednesday morning, just before daylight, the drill entered a water bearing sandstone. After drilling about a foot further the drill was taken out and the pump sent down to remove the water. The pump got stuck, and all day Wednesday and Wednesday night were spent in fishing for it. Tuesday morning the fishing tools got stuck, and it is probable that other machinery will have to be obtained from St. Louis to remove the obstructions. During the day Wednesday, the water arose in the well nearly 900 feet. What is the value of the water or force of the stream cannot be determined until the pump and other machinery have been removed, and a further depth in the water bearing stone has been reached. Those in charge of the well think good water and an abundance of it has been found.
